Supporting Evidence: On July 11, 2014, Mr. Trevino was arrested for first degree assault and first degree unlawful possession of a firearm in Spokane, Washington.

According to the incident report completed by the Spokane Police Department on July 11, 2014, officers responded to a call of a male exiting a car and running toward a residence where another male was standing. The male, who had exited the vehicle, pointed a gun at the male standing outside of the residence and began to wave the firearm around.

The responding officer contacted the alleged victim, who is an admitted member of the Deuce Avenue Crips and an associate of Mr. Trevino. Initially, the alleged victim claimed nothing happened; however, the alleged victim later admitted Mr. Trevino ran toward him with a silver handgun down at his side. When he was close enough, Mr. Trevino allegedly pointed the gun at the alleged victim's chest and told him he was going to kill him. When asked if the victim feared for his life, the alleged victim said he was more angry than anything because he did not believe Mr. Trevino would pull the trigger.

As one of the responding officers proceeded to the scene, he observed Mr. Trevino run from an alleyway to meet up with Daniqua Stensgar. The officer contacted Mr. Trevino and Ms. Stensgar. Mr. Trevino appeared to be nervous and was holding his waist band of his pants, as if he were holding something in his waist band. During this contact, dispatch gave directions of another potential suspect, who later was determined to not be directly involved. As the officer checked on other individuals, Mr. Trevino fled on foot.

Another responding officer was able to locate and detain Mr. Trevino without incident. When asked why he ran from the officer, Mr. Trevino stated, "because I'm a convicted felon already." He went on to tell the officer his girlfriend, Daniqua Stensgar, is addicted to heroin and the alleged victim is her drug dealer. Mr. Trevino stated Ms. Stensgar was with the alleged victim earlier in the day looking for heroin, and offered him sex in exchange for the drug. The alleged victim reportedly videotaped his encounter with Ms. Stensgar and sent it to Mr. Trevino, which allegedly made Mr. Trevino very angry. Mr. Trevino repeatedly told police Ms. Stensgar "needs to be home with her babies." It should be noted, Mr. Trevino and Ms. Stensgar have two young children together.

As the investigation continued, another police officer located a loaded silver colored Smith and Wesson 9mm handgun in some weeds on the road where Mr. Trevino had fled from police. Mr. Trevino initially denied knowledge of this firearm. However, when the officer advised there was a witness and that he had just run through the area minutes before, Mr. Trevino said, "oh yeah" and hung his head, which led the officer to believe he had not fully thought out his statement and had been caught.
